COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The public hearing at Rumford on the classification of the Androscoggin River went very much as expected. None of the municipalities or industries along the river objected to the C classification. The main concern of those present seemed to be the time element. Some of the speakers just requested adequate time to provide treatment facilities and the period of seven years was mentioned. The final decision of time and classification will be made by the next legislature but the recommendation of the Water Improvement Commission are usually given a lot of consideration.

The C classification would mean that the water would be acceptable for fish life and limited recreation. It would not be clean enough for swimming. A biologist from the State Fish and Game Department commented at the public hearing about a study made this summer of fish in the river. The study covered that part of the river from the Maine-New Hampshire line to the town of Jay. The study is now being printed and I believe copies of it will be available later. The condition of the river now is very poor but the outlook is very good as far as support for fish life.

The seven year allowance for abatement of pollution in the Androscoggin should be enough for the Town of Bethel. Perhaps I should qualify the last statement with the provision that federal and state approval is not delayed when the programs are ready. The town's application to the Housing and Urban Development Department has been pending since February of this year. The application is for an interest free loan to finance a preliminary study of the sewer system of the town. The engineers can't start this study until the application is approved. The study will not take very long and probably the town had better move to the next phase of the work as soon as the study has been completed. In that way the work should be completed in the allotted time.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPT. STARTS NIGHT ROAD PATROL FOR 13th SEASON

The State Highway Commission's night patrol began its thirteenth season last week end keeping watch on the condition of about 2,000 miles of the state's most traveled highways, including 173 miles of Interstate highways.

The major purpose of the patrol is to alert plowing and sanding crews if needed. Patrolmen also carry enough sand in their trucks to cover short, icy sections of road in dangerous locations and are prepared to aid motorists in distress. Last winter, according to a tabulation made by the commission, the night patrol assisted 1,200 motorists who were stranded in rural areas. Of those assisted about 1,000 cars bore Maine license tags, 200 were registered out of state.

During their nightly tour of duty, patrols contact their division offices by radios at least once each hour, through the night, reporting weather and road conditions. This information is passed on by the division's offices to the department's headquarters office in Augusta every two hours. Every day at 6:00 a. m. and at 10:00 p. m. a statewide report is made available by the Augusta office to the Presque Isle, Ellsworth, Bangor, Portland and Rumford division offices.

All of this information, late reports on local highway conditions as well as the statewide report, is available to news services and the general public at the above listed offices any time of day or night.

Motorists may wish to make note of the telephone number of the Rumford highway office so they can take advantage of this road condition reporting service.

Rumford Division Office 30 Exchange Street—Telephone 264-3331 and 264-2231. Office open 24 hours a day seven days a week. Late state-wide reports available after 6 a. m. and 10 p. m. every day of the week. Reports available on roads that are patrolled in this division at any time, day or night.

SEWERAGE MIGHT BE PROBLEM AT SCHOOL SITE. DIRECTORS ARE INFORMED

At the regular meeting of the Directors of S. A. D. 44 held at Locke Mills Monday evening, it was revealed that the planned drainage field did not appear to be satisfactory to the Department of Health. The system as originally planned would cost $30,000, while a treatment plant would cost $60,000, with a 30% Federal subsidy. The architect was instructed to continue with present plans until plans are declared unacceptable and reasons given. It was suggested that a possible relocation of the drainage field be investigated.

W. C. Goodwin and Son will start well-drilling operations at the high school site as soon as rough grading in the area is completed.

A sufficient amount of water is available at the East Bethel School enabling that school to continue. At one time it was feared that this facility would have to be closed and the pupils transported.

In a case of whether the first test was liable for pupil tuition it was the decision of the Directors that the family did not meet residence requirements.

Tuition rates for 1966 were announced as follows: Gould Academy, $750.00; Woodstock and Andover High schools, $600.00; Elementary schools, $200.00.

The next regular meeting of the Directors will be held at the Rumford C. Foster School, Newry, on Dec. 5.

DEC. 12 MEETING TO DISCUSS WATER CO.

An open meeting of Bethel citizens will be held on Dec. 12 in Union Hall at 7:30 p. m. to discuss the possible acquisition of the Bethel Water Company by the municipality.

This meeting will include a presentation of advantages of public ownership of the utility which has been controlled by private interests since its founding over 70 years ago.

It is believed that the cost of building a similar system at today's prices would be about half a million dollars. Reliable reports are that it could be acquired by the town at a cost of about one-third of the replacement expense.

Artist Speaks at Gould Assembly

Mr. Fax's trip to West Africa which resulted in "West African Vignettes" was not the first such tour he has made. As a participant in the U. S. Department of State's Educational Exchange Program, Mr. Fax travelled in South America and the Caribbean where he gave a series of chalk-talks to students and professional art groups and also sketched portraits and caricatures of dignitaries.

Since 1931, when he graduated from Syracuse University with a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree in Painting, Mr. Fax has taught and lectured at many schools and universities. For seven years he was a chalk-talk artist for the New York Times Children's Book Program.

Mr. Fax has designed and illustrated 27 books, his artwork includes murals for the Dunbar High School in his native city of Baltimore, Md. he has had exhibitions in museums in Baltimore and Washington, D. C. and is represented also in private collections in South America. His work contributions as an illustrator and lecturer are mentioned in Who's Who in American Art and Who's Who in the East.

In presenting "West African Vignettes," Mr. Fax brought to his audience a vital, timely and authoritative program. His material was gathered mainly from the ordinary citizens of cities, towns, and villages in seeking direct contact with the people. Mr. Fax made a point of staying in, or close to, rural areas. he walked a great deal and stopped to talk with people while they worked.

The Modern Interior of Kano, Nigeria as he pulls a load of cotton fibre, the woman with a child astraddle her hips, the penicillin crowd of Ghana's Phillips, the challenging shouts of the market women, sketches of these with informative captions, are an outstanding contribution to the art of the modern interior.

20 SECONDS WITH THE NAZARENE

The first act of the Pilgrims when they landed was to kneel on the shore, under the open sky and thank God.

They gave us our first Thanksgiving, celebrated after their courage and faith in God had carried them through that first killing New England winter. Half of the pilgrim handful of settlers had perished. It is interesting to note that Thanksgiving Day is the only holiday in the year that commemorates a human emotion. Thanksgiving is a positive attitude that does not take anything for granted and so is granted a full return.

STUDDERED TIRES ARE GOOD

—BUT CHAINS ARE BETTER

Your chances of getting through safely on icy pavements are better if your car is equipped with the new studded tires, but if you really want to make out when things are tough out there, you'll need reinforced tire chains, according to Executive Secretary Peter A. McKenney of the Maine Highway Safety Committee.

"Your car rests on four small areas of tire tread, each not much bigger than the palm of your hand," the safety official said. "You need the best possible traction, you can get when driving in icy conditions."

He said that tests conducted by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards at Stevens Point, Wis., during the past two winters show that studded snow tires give better traction on icy pavements than regular snow tires, but that reinforced tire chains give still better traction.

"The 1966 findings of the committee show that the use of new studded snow tires on the rear wheels of a vehicle will, on the average, reduce braking distance from a speed of 25 mph on glare ice by 21 per cent as compared with new highway tires," McKenney said. "However much of this advantage is lost after 5,000 miles of wear."

He pointed out that under similar conditions reinforced tire chains will reduce braking distance by approximately 47 per cent.

"Because studded tires are a new development in the United States, we have not had time to find out how they perform under all driving conditions," the Executive said. "Some reports from various testing bodies indicate that the stopping efficiency of tires containing studs may be somewhat less on bare pavement, wet or dry, than that of regular tires without studs," he warned.

He said the tests conducted by the National Safety Council disclosed the following average braking distance for a car traveling at 25 mph on glare ice at a temperature of 25 degrees:

Braking Per cent	Dis- tance	Improve- ment
Conventional High- way Tires	160 ft.

COUNTY MENTAL HEALTH GROUP SETS FUND QUOTA

The Oxford County Mental Health Association has set its immediate fund raising goal at $6,000, a coordinator in the program said last Friday.

Arthur N. Gouin Jr. of Norway said it was the aim of a growing organization of volunteer fund raisers to raise that amount through public subscription within the next few weeks.

In two weeks of trying, Gouin said, workers on the project had come up with $1,200 in donations.

The $6,000 total would be matched by a like amount from state and federal sources, with the state dollars providing for site operations costs and the federal money going to pay staff members.

The drive for three mental health centers is a local offshoot of a future effort last summer by the Oxford County Economic Opportunity Council to establish such centers by taking advantage of anti-poverty legisla- tion.

Gouin, the executive director of the County EOC, said his role in the present mental health push was a simple one.

"My board [the directors of the EOC] gave me permission to assist in any way possible to bring mental health services to Oxford County," he said. "My time is strictly voluntary and free of charge."

He worked a number of weeks in compiling information on the need for mental health services in Oxford County, and is considered by some association leaders as an asset in locating the sources of available state and federal funds.

The association organized in South Paris about a month ago to reinforce a mental health round- table service which had ex- isted in the Rumford-Mexico area and to set up similar centers in Norway and Bridgton.

It plans to locate its centers at the Rumford Community Hospital, Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway, and Northern Cumberland Memorial Hospital in Bridgton.

Gouin said a recent meeting of the association's board of directors had resulted in a change in the proposed method of making

IN AND ABOUT BETHEL

Edward Bennett is reported as more comfortable at Rumford Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thurston and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Baker are vacationing in Florida.

Holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Packard will be Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ulmer and daughters, Brunswick; Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand McAllister and family, Danville, and Richard Packard of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. James Tate and Bobby, Georgetown, Mass., were week end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. George Brown. While en- route to Bethel Saturday evening their auto was extensively dam- aged when they struck a large buck deer near Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Davis came from St. Louis, Mo., Saturday night by plane and are spending the week with Mr. Davis's par- ents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davis. On account of darkness, Mr. Davis could not land at the Bethel air- port. After circling the village, he returned to Portland to land, and picked up his plane Monday.

Pre-Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Quinn, Gilead, on Sunday were Mrs. Clinton New- land, Cindy and Dale, East Haven, Vt., Miss Donna Quinn, Montpel- ler, Vt., Robert Smith, Burling- ton, Vt., Miss Patricia Quinn and Colin Sheehan, Lyndonville, Vt., Mrs. Nancy Redell, Mrs. Lucia Tikander, Amos Roberts, Bethel, and Floyd Mason, Gilead. Mr. and Mrs. Quinn will attend the wed- ding of Miss Patricia Quinn and Colin Sheehan in Lyndonville, Vt., Saturday, Nov. 26th.

Previously, he pointed out, the group had stipulated that all re- ferals would be made by MD's. He said the provision had been amended to include licensed phys- icians—osteopaths as well as MD's.

Gouin said the group "hopes to begin services as soon as possible" on a part-time basis. This would mean, he said, one full-time coun- selor in both Rumford and Nor- way and part-time clerical assis- tance.

As soon as the western part of the county is better organized for a fund raising drive the service will be expanded with a full-time counselor in Bridgton, he said.

MAINE'S FIRST TV TEENAGE TEST ON NOVEMBER 23

Maine's and perhaps the na- tion's first television test for teenagers will be telecast on Monday, November 23, at 8 p. m., Wednesday, December 1, at 8 p. m. on the stations of the Maine Educational Television Network.

The program, called "Who Am I?" delves into the likes, dislikes, skills, attitudes, and aptitudes of teenagers. Each teenager who watches will perform a bit of self-analysis as Professor Robert Southworth of Gorham State College talks to a studio audi- ence and presents a series of questions to home viewers. Stu- dents may clip the questionnaire from any daily newspaper in the state on Monday, November 23.

"Who Am I?", part of the tele- vision series "Where Do We Go from Here?", will provide the teenager with a clearer idea of just what kind of education he should tackle beyond a high school. The series of television programs also provides supple- mentary information and study guides to teenagers who request the materials from Where Do We Go From Here? Gorham State College, Gorham, Maine, 04038.

counselors, Gould said the men- tal health organization would be able to call upon Lewiston fac- ilities for "back-up services" such as psychological testing and psy- chiatric consultations.

The Rev. J. N. Lello, of the Norway Congregational Church, and Dr. Charles Smith of Dix- field were recently named to the board of directors for the state's area four of the community men- tal health program.

The area includes Androscog- gin, Oxford and Franklin Coun- ties with its center in Lewiston.

MTA SAYS MAINE TEACHERS SURROUNDED BY AREAS THAT PAY HIGHER SALARIES

Eighty percent of the teachers in New Brunswick are due for a salary increase that in some cases will run as high as $4,000.

The Maine Teachers Association said that the new salary scale adopted by the provincial govern- ment means that Maine is com- pletely surrounded by areas of- fering teachers higher salaries than those prevalent in Maine.

The New Brunswick increase which goes into effect all over the province on January 1 will pay teachers with a bachelor's degree a starting salary of $5,200 on a scale that rises of $8,450 for ten years' experience. The salary scale is part of an agreement negotiated by the provincial gov- ernment and the New Brunswick Teachers Association. It also pro- vides for leaves of absence with pay, stenographic and clerical as- sistance, and regulates class size and the length of the school day.

The negotiations took place under the provisions of a new Schools Act which provides for uniform salaries and other con- ditions of employment all over the province.

MTA said that the increases make New Brunswick salaries comparable with those in south- ern New England. Salaries in the United States vary among com- munities, but MTA said the medi- cal salary schedule this year in Connecticut for the bachelor's de- gree is $5,450 to $8,720; in Massa- chusetts it is $5,200 to $7,500; in Vermont $5,000 to $7,200; in New Hampshire $4,800 to $7,000, and in Maine $4,600 to $6,600.

WEEKLY HIGHLIGHTS FOR U. OF M., ORONO, NOV. 14-19

Approximately 300 business and professional firms have contacted the University of Maine Placement Bureau seeking to interview students for placement in jobs following graduation. The number is a record total, according to Placement Bureau Director Philip Brockway. Interviews with seniors will start November 29.

A total of 1,112 students at the University of Maine received $491,925 in National Defense Education Act loans during the fiscal year which ended July 1, 1966. The amount loaned was the highest since the NDEA Loan Program was instituted at the university in 1958. The average loan was listed as $442 for full-time students and $306 for part-time students.

The budget for the current fiscal year shows a considerable decrease in NDEA funds with the federal government allocating $280,620 and the university contributing $31,202.22. The difference is expected to be made up, however, through Economic Opportunity Grants and government guaranteed loans.

The University of Maine television network will originate a unique teaching-by-television series featuring folk guitar lessons which started Friday, Nov. 18. The 26-week course is the first attempt in Maine to actually teach the basic principals of playing an instrument by television. The course will be shown by WMEB-TV, Orono; WMEM-TV, Presque Isle; and WMED-TV, Calais.

A one-week Institute on the Multiply-Handicapped Child will be conducted at the University of Maine Monday through Friday, March 27 to 31, 1967. The U. S. Office of Education has provided funds for the Institute and statewide representation of participants will be sought.

The forestry building, east of Deering Hall, is expected to be ready by June of 1968. Cost of the zoology building is $1,500,000 and cost of the forestry building is $1,300,000.

ANNUAL MEETING OF N. E. A. C. & S. S. TO FEATURE WELL-KNOWN SPEAKERS

Four writers and educators of national prominence will address the 81st annual meeting of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools when it gathers at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Boston on Friday, Dec. 2.

More than 1,200 delegates and guests from the region's public and independent secondary schools and colleges are expected to be present.

David Mallory — director of studies for the National Association of Independent Schools and program director of the Friends Council on Education of Philadelphia — will speak at the first general session at 11:15 a. m.

At luncheon, Robert J. Manning, former journalist and Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs and now editor of "The Atlantic," will be the guest speaker.

Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth, director of student health services at Harvard and an international authority on psychiatry and mental health, will address the conference after its annual business meeting in the late afternoon.

Max Lerner — author, editor, nationally syndicated columnist and Professor of American Civilization and World Politics at Brandeis University — will speak at the Association's annual banquet that evening.

Membership in the NEAC&SS is limited to those 852 educational institutions in the six New England states which have met the organization's academic, physical and financial standards.

While accreditation of new schools and colleges is one of its primary responsibilities, the Association also re-evaluates its member institutions every six years. At the annual meeting its three Commissions—one each for public secondary schools, independent secondary schools, and higher education—recommend to the delegates those institutions which it considers qualified for new or continued membership.

Association President is Dr. Robert E. L. Strider, president of Colby College, Waterville. Following the annual meeting he will be succeeded as president by Francis O. Grubbs, headmaster of the Loomis School, Windsor, Conn. Dana M. Cotton, of the Harvard Graduate School of Education, is the organization's secretary-treasurer.

The three commissions and the executive committee will meet on Thursday, Dec. 1, and on Saturday a number of related educational organizations will hold their annual meetings in the Boston area.

Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth, director of student health services at Harvard and an international authority on psychiatry and mental health, will address the conference after its annual business meeting in the late afternoon.
